

The Bulldog Trust and NPC Invite you to Rebalancing the Power

15th September 2016, 6:30pm – 8:30pm

2 Temple Place, London WC2R 3BD

About this event

‘Box-ticking’, ‘jumping through hoops’, ‘having to reinvent the wheel’—charities often feel they are at the mercy of funders’ priorities. And in their effort to appeal to funders, some move away from their mission and from their focus on beneficiaries. Perhaps there is a different way.

This event, in partnership with New Philanthropy Capital, will draw on examples of collaboration to explore whether charities should and can do more to put themselves in the driving seat in relationships with funders. It will be chaired by Mary Rose Gunn, our very own Chief Executive at The Bulldog Trust and delegates will hear from speakers including:

- Danny Kruger, Chief Executive, West London Zone
- Jenny North, Director of Policy and Strategy, Impetus-PEF
- Rob Abercrombie, Director of Research & Consulting, NPC

In particular the event will ask:

- Are funders prepared to share power? Are charities able to step up to the challenge?
- What determines the nature of the donor-recipient dynamic? Do we need to challenge it? Why, and how can we do so?
- What role is there for beneficiaries?
- Can the donor-grantee power dynamic ever truly be overcome?
